Preface

As is well known, Chicago was visited in 1871 by one of the most devastating fires in American history, which wiped out almost every building in the city and destroyed, of course, most of the locally printed books and pamphlets in the collection of the already active Chicago Historical Society and in private hands. This circumstance, plus a second destruction of the library of the Chicago Historical Society, is responsible for the relative rarity of Chicago imprints of earlier date, frequently referred to in the book world as "ante-fire Chicago imprints."

In the before-the-fire period, as is also well known, the Chicago Public Library was not in existence, it being founded as the result of gifts of books sent from England to replace in some degree the local supply of reading matter consumed by the flames.

Chicago imprints earlier than 1851 have received their share of attention, being recorded in a published list which has been twice amplified and issued in revised form. But the years 1851-1871 inclusive were active and important years in Chicago's history, embracing as they did the period of the Civil War and the crystallization of public opinion which led up to it. Chicago provided an important amphitheatre for building up the political significance of Abraham Lincoln. The merits of Chicago as a commercial metropolis were already becoming apparent, and decisions were arrived at which inevitably destined Chicago to become the railroad center of the United States.

Since these years were significant historically, the printed source materials for Chicago's history during the ante-fire period are certainly worthy of exploration and record, especially since losses in the fire make many of the titles rare and difficult of location.

The American Imprints Inventory of the Historical Records Survey is wholly responsible for the final copy of the list of Chicago ante-fire imprints which is here presented, and for its issue in this volume. The Inventory had the advantage, however, of starting with a list of titles started eight years ago by the undersigned and added to from time to time, as new imprints came to light. For a year or more, Miss Eleanor Conway, librarian of the Chicago Historical Society, gave special thought to local imprints and made note of those encountered in her work.

About three years ago the Chicago Historical Society made a consequential contribution to the compilation of this list when Mr. L. Hubbard Shattuck, its director, authorized one member of his staff, Miss Dorothy Wright, to work under the direction of the undersigned to find and record all Chicago imprints of the ante-fire period which are represented in the collection of that Society. Miss Wright did competent and conscientious work, supplying full titles for imprints in the Society's library and writing individual titles for yearly issues of reports, proceedings, and other continuations. After a year's effort, it became necessary to transfer her to other work, so the progress on the list of ante-fire Chicago imprints was again at a standstill.

When the American Imprints Inventory began to function, the titles already assembled were taken over, with the generous permission of the Chicago Historical Society, and the completion of the list was one of the early tasks scheduled on its program. Mrs. Clara Fishman, the first bibliographer to be appointed on our Illinois staff, was given this assignment and gave it continuous attention for over six months. The final detail work was completed by Joseph Conforti, bibliographer on the Illinois staff of the Historical Records Survey.

This volume was mimeographed by the Illinois office of the Historical Records Survey under the direction of Howard E. Colgan, state director and regional supervisor, whose cooperation is herewith gratefully acknowledged.

It is hoped that this check list will prove a helpful finding mechanism to inquirers into all aspects of Chicago history. It will be noted that all titles are located, using library symbols adopted by the Union Catalog of the Library of Congress. The titles in this list have been reported to and checked by the Union Catalog, resulting in the record of additional locations for many of the imprints. For the able cooperation in this connection of Mr. George A. Schwegmann, Jr., director of the Union Catalog, we are grateful.

We are also under appreciatively acknowledged obligation to numerous librarians for replies to inquiries regarding imprints in the collections under their care. Among them may be named Mr. Willard O. Waters, of the Henry E. Huntington Library; Mr. Richard H. Johnston, of the Library of the Bureau of Railway Economics; Mr. V. Valta Parma, Curator of the rare book collection of the Library of Congress; Mr. William L. Boyden, librarian of the Supreme Council of the 33rd Degree; Mr. C. C. Hunt, of the Iowa Masonic Library; Mr. Allyn Forbes, of the Massachusetts Historical Society; Professor Eldon R. James, of the Harvard Law School Library; Miss Gertrude Krausnick, of the Minnesota Historical Society; Mr. R. W. G. Vail, of the American Antiquarian Society; Mr. Joseph Gavit, of the New York State Library; Dr. Augustus H. Shearer, of the Grosvenor Library; Dr. Alexander J. Wall, of the New York Historical Society; Mr. L. Nelson Nichols, of the New York Public Library; Miss Eleanor Wilby, of the Historical and Philological Society of Ohio; Dr. Wallace H. Cathcart, of the Western Reserve Historical Society; Mr. Herbert Kellar, of the McCormick Historical Association; Mr. Paul M. Angle, of the Illinois State Historical Library; Mr. Richard Hensley, of the Boston Public Library; Miss Marjorie Crandall, of the Boston Athenaeum; Dr. Julian Boyd, of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania; Dr. Thomas C. Pears, Jr., of the Presbyterian Historical Society; Dr. Henry B. Van Hoesen, of the Brown University Library; and Miss Annie A. Nunns, of the Wisconsin Historical Society. Mr. Thomas W. Streeter has supplied information regarding imprints in his private collection. Mr. Lawrence E. Dicke generously permitted two of our workers access to his notable collection of Chicagoana, and descriptions were noted of many books and pamphlets in his collection. In justice to the comprehensiveness of Mr. Dicke's collection, however, it is pointed out that the titles credited to him in this list represent only a portion of the Chicago imprints in his possession. It is hoped that, before a supplement to this list is issued, more comprehensive examination and record of his collection may be made. We desire to express our appreciation for Mr. Dicke's cooperation.

A considerable proportion of the titles in the following list has been reported from various states by workers of the Historical Records Survey assigned to the field work of the American Imprints Inventory. The Massachusetts, New York City, and Pennsylvania offices of the Historical Records Survey have contributed most extensively to the present compilation.

It is expressly pointed out that this list of Chicago imprints for the years 1851 to 1871 inclusive is not offered as a final bibliography of the issues local press of the period. Finality in any such a list is, of course, not attainable. The present contribution is a first list, recording many titles in unexpected locations, which it is hoped will be helpful to historians and research workers, making known much source material which might readily be missed. The present program of the American Imprints Inventory calls for the issue in the relatively near future of a supplement to this list. As a matter of fact, many new titles have been reported by field workers in the various states since this list was closed for mimeographing. All these titles will be included in the projected supplement.

In this connection, it may be pointed out that the American Imprints Inventory is committed to the policy of progressive bibliography. The bibliographer who holds up the publication of any list until it is complete never publishes it at all, but leaves only unfinished manuscript for his heirs to throw away. The best way to perfect any bibliography is to make it as complete as possible, within reasonable limits, and then issue it in preliminary form. This issue serves two important ends: First, the list is made available to scholars who wish to consult it. Second, its issue stimulates checking by bibliographers, librarians, and local historians, with the result of bringing to light additional titles which would not otherwise be found, and which can be reported in a supplement or included in a revised and amplified list. The best local bibliographies are the result of such publication, in progressively improved form.

It is therefore almost superfluous to state that notes of additions to the list here published (addressed to the American Imprints Inventory, 950 Michigan Avenue, Evanston, Illinois) will be most gratefully received.

The present list includes 1,880 titles printed in Chicago in the years 1851 to and including that part of 1871 before the fire. Of these titles, 1,320 are to be found in libraries in the state of Illinois and 1,095 in Chicago libraries.

It will thus be noted that the list records 560 Chicago imprints not as yet found in any library in Illinois and nearly 800 located in no Chicago library. This situation is accounted for to some extent by the complete destruction of all local collections of printed material in the great fire, and in other lesser conflagrations.

The recorded Chicago imprints for the period covered are distributed among 142 libraries and private collections.

Appropriately enough, the largest single collection of this distinctively Chicago material is found in the library of the Chicago Historical Society, which has 825, or somewhat less than half, of the titles listed. Next comes the Library of Congress, with 279 titles, immediately followed by the important collection of Mr. Lawrence E. Dicke of Evanston, from which 276 titles have been recorded. As has been pointed out, Mr. Dicke's collection has not yet been exhaustively explored, and the number cited here from his collection will be considerably augmented when opportunity is presented for a thorough examination of his holdings.

Other notable collections of ante-fire Chicagoana dating from after 1850 are recorded from the John Crerar Library, Chicago, with 212 titles; from the University of Chicago Library, with 154; from the New York Public Library, with 138; from the Chicago Public Library, with 129; from the Boston Public Library, with 124; from the library of the Minnesota Historical Society, Saint Paul, with 120; from the library of the American Antiquarian Society, Worcester, Massachusetts, with 115; from the Newberry Library, Chicago, with 112; and from the Harvard College Library, Cambridge, Massachusetts, with 102.

The following table showing by years of issue the imprints recorded in this list gives us a relatively accurate measure of the steady growth in volume of printing in Chicago: It cannot escape notice that this output increased enormously during the second of the two decades, the total being 514 titles for the years 1851-1860 and 1366 for 1861-1870 and a portion of 1871. This increase is most marked in the years immediately following the close of the Civil War.
